Artifacts found in Douglas House!

Built in 1873, James and Wilhelmina Douglas’ house is one of the oldest in Moorhead. Most of the items date from the late 1870s and early 1880s and seem to relate to the family. Our next newsletter will describe this surprise find in more detail. Shown at left are some of the items: a seed catalog from 1878, a china head doll from about the mid-1860s, three men’s removable collars (marked “James Douglas”) and a pair of men’s slippers.

Stay tuned!
President’s Column

By Dale White

As I write this column, the temperature is above average, the sun is bright, and the ground has seen no snow. But you will read this column in the November/December newsletter, amid reminders and early bustle of the holidays. For most of our readers this is a comfortable, cozy time of the year, a time when we think about home and family.

“Home” might mean a house or farm, a hometown, or a larger locality. But for most people “home” is a nostalgic blend of the familiar and commonplace, remembering past events and circumstances, and thinking of loved ones both present and departed. A number of our Board members the other day came to the conclusion that this concept of “home” is compatible with the vision of the Clay County Historical Society.

So, we thought, how about giving a Christmas gift of a membership to CCHS. What you really would give is an interesting newsletter every couple of months, the knowledge that the membership is contributing to the preservation of the past, and the connection (or reconnection) with a certain place in Clay County. So, what could be a more appropriate gift than a year’s membership in CCHS, especially to someone who has moved away? One size fits all.

I enjoyed the Clay County History Tour on September 25th. Post trip evaluations showed that participants felt it was a successful event. It is interesting that the last prior CCHS Clay County tour was 40 years ago—almost to the day of our 2004 tour. In September 1964, the bus visited nearly the same list of sites (also stopping at the Hawley Mooring Stone—remember that story?) that it did this year. I assume Mrs. Fawbush, the CCHS curator at the time, accompanied the group. How many of our current members went on that 1964 tour?

Think about how our county and its towns have changed in those 40 years. Yet our idea of the truly historic places in Clay County evidently has not changed much.

Today this seems a little early, but it’s the last Newsletter of 2004, so...on behalf of the Board of Directors, let me be the first to wish you a Happy New Year!
Your response is overwhelming!
Member support shown in generous donations

CCHS is grateful and proud to announce that our members have donated over $3,000 in response to our request for donations to help funding for the historical society! Your donations this year will help relieve the cuts the Clay County Commission was forced to make to the historical society’s 2003 and 2004 funding due to the state budget situation.

More good news is that the Commissioners restored CCHS’ funding for 2005 to the amount originally requested in 2003. This amount might have been more without the previous cuts, however, and our rent in the Hjemkomst Center and the cost of producing superior educational exhibits increases each year. Some specific needs we have are shelving for the archives, muslin for textile preservation, a large format printer for reproducing photos and documents for exhibits, a small shop vac, and tarps for the 1936 Buffalo Fire Engine.

We are genuinely grateful for the support that has been shown. If you have not yet responded to our request, we kindly ask that you consider doing so now. Perhaps you would like to donate $25 to purchase a shelf or $150 for a bookcase. $50 would purchase a bolt of muslin or go toward a good shop vac. You may submit your donation for general operations or designate it for one of these specific purposes. Whatever your decision, we want you to know that your membership and continued support is greatly appreciated. Happy New Year!

Listed here are those individuals and businesses who have answered our appeal with their thoughtful contributions. Thank you so much!!

EATING OUT, showing artifacts and photos from CCHS' award-winning exhibit Eating Out in Clay County, is at the Hawley Public Library. The artifacts and photos "visit" cafes and restaurants and eating at work and school.

The Moorhead Public Library hosts a special display starting in November created by the Red River Valley Wood Carvers. The display features a large Noah's ark with animals carved by members of the club. The club holds meetings at the Hjemkomst Center.

Part 2 of BOYS' TOYS is at the Barnesville Public Library. This display features active toys recalling days of noisy activity. Be prepared to knuckle down with these playthings from the past.

The Fargo-Moorhead Convention and Visitors' Bureau along I-94 has COLLECTING CHRISTMAS PAST, a display (WWII to 1960) featuring examples of collectible Christmas decorations from World War II to the 1960s.

IN-HOUSE DISPLAYS

Five generations of Charlotte Watson family wedding dresses from the Old, New, Borrowed, Blue exhibit are featured in the atrium display case. The dresses cover more than 100 years of wedding fashion, from 1865 bell-shaped skirts to the 1977 frontier-revival style.

CCHS arranged a new display of exquisite, hand-decorated china in the lobby area. These items were painted by Beulah Forness who holds china-painting classes in the building Tuesday mornings.

February 1—March 27

Accepting submissions now!

Space is limited: first come, first served

Submit your entries at the Clay County Museum, Monday-Friday, 9-5

CCHS is looking for the ugliest bridesmaid dress in Clay County! Oh, now brides, don’t get all up in arms—it’s all in good fun, plus there are prizes!

While it could be fun to see what people can find on the thrift store racks, we must have the date of the crime and names of the perpetrators submitted with the offensive garment to ensure authenticity. The “outfits” will be displayed in the atrium hall case February 1 through March 27, where the public will be asked to vote on their favorites for Worst Color, Worst Design, Least Offensive, and What Was She Thinking?

Because we know that few people save room in their closets for these eyesores, we have provided a category for Worst Creation Captured On Film, with a prize for those who have, for some reason, kept a photographic record of the atrocity they were forced to endure for the sheer happiness of their friend, sister or cousin. We applaud you for sacrificing your physical and emotional comfort for our entertainment, and offer this occasion as an opportunity for therapy. We invite you to humor us!

Here Comes the Bride: Weddings in America exhibit opens January 22

The bride is the central figure in an almost universal ritual—the wedding. Each wedding is a symbol of family continuity that signals the end of a courtship and the beginning of a marriage. While courtship and marriage have changed dramatically throughout history, many elements of the wedding itself have remained remarkably unaltered.

Here Comes the Bride: Weddings in America, an exhibit opening January 22 at the Clay County Museum, explores the history of weddings in America from Colonial times up to the present day. The traveling exhibit was developed by the Rogers Historical Museum in Rogers, Arkansas.

The twelve exhibit panels discuss a variety of topics including courtship, wedding attire, decorating for the wedding, the wedding ceremony itself, wedding gifts, and the honeymoon. One panel is devoted to ethnic wedding customs, while another looks at the influence of royal weddings.

Changes in the wedding dress itself is one focus of the exhibit. Other interesting topics include the evolution of the wedding cake, the history of the diamond engagement ring, fashions in bridal bouquets, the beginnings of the gift registry, and changes in the honeymoon. An interactive portion of the exhibit invites visitors to fill three “hope chests” with illustrations of costumes, wedding gifts, and other items appropriate to three periods in American history.

The final panel looks at recent changes in marriage and weddings. The immediate aftermath of World War II was a period of emphasis on home and family that encouraged early marriage. This coupled with postwar prosperity resulted in the big, white wedding becoming a normal part of middle-class life, and weddings became a big business.

Despite all the expense put into the ceremonies, many of these postwar marriages ended in divorce, and many couples now choose to live together without any sort of legal bond. But with all the changes in courtship and marriage, weddings continue to fascinate us. Television soap opera and sitcom weddings have been among the most-watched episodes in history, and millions tuned in for the real-life wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Di. Now as throughout history it seems that everyone loves a bride!

Here Comes the Bride is being hosted by CCHS to complement the current exhibit Old, New, Borrowed, Blue: Weddings in Clay County. Here Comes the Bride will be on view at the museum through March 12 during regular museum hours, which can be found on page 15.

A Wedding Story:
Edward Moe and Olga Anderson

By Pam Burkhardt, Collections Manager

Information comes to the museum and archives from many sources. Among the best are first-person accounts of an event. When Ona Langerud donated Edward Moe's wedding suit, she also donated a wedding booklet, transcript of the newspaper account of the wedding, and photos for us to copy. She identified the people in the photos for us and explained relationships. The wedding booklet is a real gem. Olga Anderson, later Mrs. Moe, took the time to record bridal showers, her wedding reception and wedding trip. Focusing on that material and more from other sources, we can form a more complete picture of Edward and Olga's story.

The following account was found in the Becker County history album circa 1976, Atlanta Township section, page 127. Adella Mikulecky wrote the history. A condensed version follows:

Ole Anders Son Mulsvor married Oline Seljseth in 1887. Both were born in Horningdal, Norfjord, Norway. The couple came to America in 1902. Ole changed his name from Mulsvor to Anderson when he settled in Minnesota. The couple had four children – one of which was Olai Anderson. Olai married Pernella Seljseth in July 1916 and eventually settled on a farm on Sec. 23 in Atlanta Township. Pernella also came from Horningdal. Olai and Pernella had two daughters - Olga (Mrs. Edward Moe) and Adella (Mrs. George Mikulecky). The Anderson farm was sold to the Mattson brothers.

Olga's record

Olga recorded names and gifts in this booklet in the space labeled “Guests.” She also used a separate sheet of paper for the overflow. Olga also recorded two showers:

Girls in Minneapolis gave me a handkerchief shower on the 18th of June, the same Sunday [a] tornado hit Anoka. Held at Hawks.

Decorations were pink and white. Received 12 lovely handkerchiefs. Also 8 hemmed towels. Lovely underwear from Adella. Buffet style lunch. Olga Mattson poured. Had a lot of fun.

Olga didn’t record details of the ceremony, but the Lake Park Journal of July 13, 1939 did:

Married at Local Church

The Lake Park Lutheran church was the setting Sunday (July ninth) of the marriage of Miss Olga E. Anderson, daughter of Mr. And Mrs. Olai Anderson of Lake Park and Mr. Edward H. Moe, some of Mr. Jacob Moe of Hitterdal. The service was read at two o’clock by Rec. A.J. Anders in the presence of 400 wedding guests.

Mrs. A.J. Anders played the Lohengrin wedding march and O’ Promise Me and At Dawning were sung by Misses Palma, Lucille, Opal and Matel Mattson of Hitterdal, with Miss Eunice Eide of Hitterdal as the pianist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore silk marquisette gown with net veil and carried sweet peas and baby’s breath. She wore the wedding brooch of the bridegroom’s mother. As maid of honor, Miss Adella Anderson of Minneapolis, sister of the bride, was gowned in embroidered organdy and carried sweet peas and baby’s breath. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Moe and Miss Alice Moe of Hitterdal and Miss Inez Olson of Pelican Rapids, and Miss Sylvia Moe, a niece of the bride was flower girl. Mrs. Melvin Moe was his brother’s attendant while groomsmen were Messers. Roy, John and Arnold Moe, all of Hitterdal.

A reception was held in the home of the brides’ parents, the out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Sivert Moe of Glyndon; Mr. And Mrs. Bernard Moe of Cormorant, Mr. And Mrs. Peter Sande of Fargo and Mrs. George Flagle and daughter, Helen of Detroit, Michigan. Mr. And Mrs. Moe will be at home in Hitterdal after a wedding trip to northern Minnesota.

The Journal joins with their many friends in wishing the happy young couple along and happy wedded life.

Olga’s reception.

At about two forty five o’clock we came out of the church after many best wishes, Maurice Handegard and Mrs. K. Thorsen took several snap shots. After that we left for home in our car with Melvin & Adella, Melvin driving. Art Moe following close behind. We mingled a while with the guests. About four o’clock we had lunch. A table for 19 was set under the trees. About 50 other guests were served buffet style. Adella seated the table of 19. Mr. & Mrs. Anders, Mother & Dad, Mr. & Mrs. Jacob Moe, Mr. & Mrs. John Moe, Grandma & Grandpa Arnold, Fay Alice Moe Sylvia Olson, Adella Melain, Inez Olson, Eddie & I. Chicken & cheese sandwiches, lefsa, potato salad, fatig-mand, cookies, ice cream with strawberries and wedding cake. Serving were Olga Mattson, Ella Bakke, Adelinde Bokken, Sylvia Lundberg.

Birth Record Access Threatened

By Mark Peihl, CCHS Archivist

This is another of those good news-bad news stories. The good news is that two new online indexes are making access to birth and marriage records much easier. The bad news is proposed federal legislation may make accessing birth records nearly impossible for genealogists.

First the good news. Our readers may recall that earlier this year the Clay County Recorder’s Office added an index to deaths recorded in the county between 1872 and 1982 to their website. Just last month, they added an online index to Clay County marriages, 1872-1939.

Information recorded on the index includes the groom’s name, bride’s maiden name, date of the marriage and the book and page on which the marriage is recorded. This is probably all most genealogists need but the Recorder can provide a copy of the marriage record for $8.00. The index is searchable by the groom’s name or by the bride’s maiden name.

Go to http://www.co.clay.mn.us/Depts/Recorder/Recorder.htm and click on the “Vital Statistics” link then click on either the “Death Record Index On-Line” or “Marriage Record Index On-Line” link.

Some more good news. A few years ago the Minnesota Historical Society, through the cooperation of the Minnesota Department of Health, added an online index to all Minnesota death certificates filed between 1908 and 1996. In 1908 the state health department began recording deaths and births statewide. Previously this was the responsibility of local and county officials. Also indexed, however, are “death cards,” transcriptions of death records filed locally between 1900 and 1907. These transcripts are incomplete and only partially filled in. They are not official records but can provide researchers with valuable information including the county in which the complete death record may be found. The death index can be found at http://people.mnhs.org/dei/Search.cfm.

Early in November MHS began an ambitious project to add an online index to Minnesota births as well. Currently indexed are birth cards, similar to the death cards, from 1900 through 1907. The official Health Department birth records will be added over the next few years; 1908 will be added soon. Eventually births records from 1908 through 1934 will be indexed. (Incidentally, many genealogists are unaware of an existing state-wide index to post-1934 Minnesota births. Though not available on the internet, public use terminals are available in any County Recorder’s Office in the state.) Not every birth record will be available. Records of illegitimate births, for instance, are kept sealed to protect the privacy of those involved for 90 years, longer if an adoption is involved.

genealogists, however, don’t require a certified record. Uncertified records contain the same information as certified records. They just lack an official seal.

MHS’ birth record index will be a tremendous boon to genealogists all over the world – if it’s allowed to continue. Here’s the bad news. Proposed federal legislation may drastically restrict access to any kind of birth record.

After the September 11 attacks, Congress passed the Patriot Act, designed to give law enforcement officials greater powers to protect the nation from further attacks. The act is now up for renewal. One added provision to House Resolution 10 (Patriot Act II), “Chapter 2—Improved Security for Birth Certificates” would severely restrict states from issuing copies of birth records. Applicants would, basically, have to provide all the information on the birth record and certificates could only be issued to the person whose birth is recorded and as yet unspecified close family relatives. The proposal provides no exemptions for uncertified copies or for any time limit on the restrictions.

Just as with MHS’ death index, it is possible to purchase uncertified copies of birth records through the website for $8.00 per copy. Uncertified copies are not legal documents. This is an important distinction, as we shall see. Certified copies of birth and death records are legal documents and can be used to settle an estate, apply for a driver’s license, a passport or a Social Security card. Nefarious people can also use them to steal a person’s identity or in other types of fraud. In August 2000 Minnesota instituted new, tougher standards for who may receive a certified death or birth record. Applicants must now show they have a “tangible interest” in the record. According to the Health Department’s website, “You have tangible interest in a certificate if you are: the subject of the certificate; if you are the child, grandchild, spouse, parent, grandparent, legal custodian, conservator, or guardian of the subject; if you are a personal representative of the estate of the subject; if you are a licensed attorney; if you are the person who filed or a representative of the organization that filed the birth or death information with the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) or a local registrar; a successor of the subject; a trustee of a trust and the requested record is a death record; or the representative of an adoption agency.” Most of the Act is on a fast track for passage. The House has passed the legislation and a similar bill has passed the Senate. A conference committee will meet to hash out differences in the bills. Minnesota Senator Norm Coleman is a member of that conference committee. Genealogical and historical societies from around the country (including MHS and the Minnesota Genealogical Society) are urging inclusion of an amendment to HR 10 Section 3063(d)(2) which reads as follows: "However, nothing in this Chapter 2 shall be construed to require a State to change its law with respect to public access to (A) non-certified copies of birth certificates, or to (B) birth certificates or birth records once a period of 100 years has elapsed from the date of creation of the certificate or record." For further information check the Wisconsin State Genealogical Society’s website at http://www.rootsweb.com/~wsgs/records.htm. And stay tuned.

Edith Mikulecky in white uniforms.

About five thirty o’clock, I changed my dress with Inez help (or was it) it included a good deal of rice. I wore a white felt hat, natural tan packable hopsacking with white saddle shoes. Eddie wore a light green sport suit. With rice all over and the car very decorated with soap & old stockings, tin cans etc. we drove out of the yard. Clarence Peterson trailed us to Callaway. From Callaway, we went to Ponsford north to Highway 71 on to No. 92 and into Itasca Park. Climbed the observation tower and drove in & out. And from there to Bemidji. Came into Bemidji about eleven o’clock. We found Uncle Elmer’s cabins after congratulations of a cop. [Next day] Drove around Bemidji, saw Paul Bunyan & his Blue Ox. Had Buckwheat cakes & country sausages at [left blank in record].

Took Highway 71 on to International Falls. Saw where forest fire had passed and saw mill and an ever so long stretch of piled post[s]. Camped on Rainy Lake for a while. Left about 1 o’clock for Orr. [They stopped at a CCC camp.] We stayed over at Orr. Leave nine next morning. Drove to Virginia for breakfast. Visited the open mine then on to Hibbing. Went through Hibbing High School. On to Grand Rapids. Stopped a while at Leech Lake – a lovely place. On to Detroit [Lakes] where we went in the water. Home about 10 o’clock Tuesday nite.

Many gifts and givers are recorded in the booklet. Here are just a few with some typical presents:

Update on 1941 Northwest Plane Crash Passenger

Many of our members have commented on the article about the crash of Northwest Airlines flight Number 5 which ran in our last newsletter. Several folks noticed that we provided information about all of the victims of the crash except Miss Helen Ford. They were interested in who this “mystery woman” was and why she was on the plane. The Fargo Forum reported only that Miss Ford, age 33 “had lived in both Minneapolis and Fargo for several years,” and that her body was being transported to Mason City, Iowa for burial. The Forum printed a small, fuzzy (irreproducible) photo of Miss Ford.

The Moorhead Daily News indicated Miss Ford was “survived by her mother, Mrs. Mae Ford of Mason City, Iowa.” We could find no other obituary for her in either local paper, nor was she listed in the 1936, 1938 or 1940 Fargo Moorhead city directories.

We contacted the North Central Iowa Genealogical Society in Mason City. They provided an obituary from the Mason City Globe-Gazette for Miss Ford which said, “Operator of a ready-to-wear store in Fargo, she was born at Monmouth, Ill. Sept. 10, 1908. She attended the Mason City schools and was graduated from the High School, following which she attended the Hamilton School of Commerce.

“Ten years ago she left Mason City for employment in Minneapolis. Two years ago she went to Fargo where she opened a ready-to-wear store. She was returning to Fargo from Minneapolis at the time of the crash.

“Her mother is the only immediate relative surviving.”

The 1940 Fargo city directory lists 31 men’s and women’s clothing stores. We checked the listings for each but could not connect with Miss Ford to any of them. However, she may have just had a local manager for the business. A later Globe-Gazette piece about her funeral mentioned among the guests from out of town a “Mrs. Gladys Hall, Fargo.” She’s the only guest listed from Fargo-Moorhead. Mrs. Hall is mentioned only a couple of times in the city directories, in 1938 and 1940, as proprietor of the Broadway Hotel, 322 ½ Broadway. It’s possible that Miss Ford lived at the Broadway Hotel on trips to visit her store and got to know Mrs. Hall that way. This would explain why Miss Ford was not listed in the city directories.

If anyone has any further information about Helen Ford, please contact Mark at the museum. Thanks!

pickle dish; Mrs. Geo. Anderson & Annie, black water pitcher; Grandma, Indian blanket, Mr. & Mrs. Jacob Moe, carving set; Mrs. Anton Quam, cake carrier; Mrs. D. Koening, sugar & creamer; Mr. & Mrs. Gust Bengston, canister set; Mr. & Mrs. Oscar Bengston, ivy plant, Mrs. E.B. Hitterdal/Mrs. Arthur Moe/Miss Helen Moe, Heavy aluminum [pots & pans], Mr. & Mrs. Oscar Gjelton family, alarm clock.

From the book Hitterdal, 100 Years, the Minnesota Death Index located on the MHS site, and information from the family, we learn the rest of the story. Mr. & Mrs. Edward Moe first settled in Hitterdal. Edward bought the former Wilcox Lumber property where he owned and operated Moe Implement – a dealership selling Minneapolis-Moline machinery. After their implement shop burned, they moved the business to an old potato warehouse. Later, Edward and Olga moved to Atlanta Township, in Becker Co. where Edward expanded his farming operation. After their children were grown, Edward and Olga built a house in Hitterdal. Their children are Sandra, Yvette, twins Mark and Mathew, twins Ona and Tim, and Gregory. Olga died in 1991, and Edward 1997. They were married 52 years.

A Look Back...

50 Years Ago

Moorhead Daily News, December 31, 1954

Headline: “Construction of Four-Lane Highway to Begin from Hawley to Lake Park”

Women who suffer from the scornful term, “women drivers,” may not be able to prove they are the equal of a man driving a car but Moorhead women now can claim they’re better on foot.

A class at the University of Minnesota undertook a study of pedestrian behavior, including a one-day survey last week at Center Ave. and 6th St. from 2 to 2:15 p.m. Counted were 69 men and 51 women, with the women coming off best in proper observance of pedestrian traffic rules.

The majority of the 120 people waited on the curb but nine men walked against the red light; only three women.

Ten men edged off the curb into the street while waiting for the light to change; seven women took the same chance.

Two men and one woman disregarded the yellow caution signal and were caught in the middle of the intersection by the red light.

(Note to the men: the survey was taken by a woman.)

CCHS accepts AASLH Award in St. Louis

On September 29, CCHS Director Lisa Vedaa flew to St. Louis, Missouri, to attend the Annual Meeting of the American Association for State and Local History and accept the Certificate of Commendation AASLH awarded CCHS for the exhibit Eating Out in Clay County.

The AASLH Awards Program, now in its 59th year, is the most prestigious recognition for achievement in the preservation and interpretation of local, state, and regional history. The awards program was initiated in 1945 to establish and encourage standards of excellence in the collection, preservation, and interpretation of state and local history throughout the United States.

Awards for 2004 represent 102 organizations and individuals from the United States. Award winners were honored at a special banquet Thursday night, September 30, during the AASLH 2004 Annual Meeting. A generous contribution from The History Channel helped underwrite the cost of the Awards Banquet for the award winners.

AASLH also gave each award recipient one free day at the conference, so Vedaa was able to take in sessions on topics of organizational change in history organizations, leadership issues, and building successful community financial relationships, and even had a little time for a steamboat ride and to ride to the top of the famous Gateway Arch.
